The Bullying Prevention Consortium will assist school districts in creating a comprehensive plan to address bullying in accordance with HB 2310 which indicates that each district will survey students and implement a strategic plan to address bullying.

Assessment

- Student survey on types of bullying behaviors, frequency, and location. Results are tabulated and given to district to assess with their safety committee for strategic planning

Professional Development

- One day on-site staff in-service training
- One registration for Bullying Mini-Conference to be held November 2007

Student Education

- Student training available on-site for 80 middle and high school students. Additional training available at a cost of $250 per half day.
- Too Good for Violence is a research-based, model program for Kindergarten through High School to address conflict resolution, bullying, peer pressure, and anger management. It includes a teacher manual and student workbooks and one half day implementation training.

Additional Resources

- Access to a comprehensive resource lending library including books, videos, and brochures
- 5% discount on School Reach- an easy, effective way to communicate with parents on short notice
- 10% discount on products and services through American Digital Securities specializing in the design and installation of high quality security systems
